Today Former Patrolman Faces Murder Count

For 52 More Planes, Much Thanks.

The Mothers Return. North Pole Submarine. — By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

(Copyright, 1929 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

GOOD NEWS announces Navy contracts for fifty-two fighting planes, torpedo and bombing aircraft. They will cost, for the fifty-two ships, $5,000,000.

For the price of one modern battleship, with coilers and other equipment, the Navy could buy 1,000 such fighting planes. Altogether they would require crews smaller than one battleship crew, and would cost far less in upkeep than one battleship.

And one such bombing plane could sink any battleship or other ship afloat.

This nation needs at the least a fleet of 5,000 fighting planes, with an adequate fleet under water.

PESHAWAR is a long way from Buckingham Palace, and once it would have been painful, slow work sending natives in those far off valleys.

But now, the dull thud of exploding Royal Air Force bombs is heard in the hiding places of Hajj, and his Mohammedan tribesmen, rebelling against Britain. And Hajj's forces are melting away.

Allah and his Prophet are great, but they offer no weapon to fight flying machines.

If bombing planes can hunt out scattered tribesmen in far off mountains and valleys, what would such planes, with bombs and poison gas, do in great cities, where millions of men and billions of money are packed close together, offering such easy marks?

What a surprise for some of us, suddenly, some foreign power should decide to treat one of our great cities as Britain is treating the fierce Mohammedan tribes and gentle Hindus.

THE FIRST PARTY of 127 Gold Star Mothers, having seen the graves of their dead sons, are on their way home.

They were too early for the poppies, about which pretty war poems were written, but they saw the white crosses, row on row, each marking the grave of a dead American soldier.

The movement that sends them abroad, to visit graves, should reward itself the right not to send other young Americans to be killed. It should not leave that question to the discretion of any League of Nations or World court.

And it should decide for itself what defense, ships, airplanes, submarines this nation needs, and not leave that question to Britain and Japan. That has been recently done, ignoring the advice and warnings of our highest naval officers, in deference to the wishes of Anglo-manics in office and financiers engaged in international transactions.

PRESIDENT HOOVER and the navy department are to be congratulated on the decision to allow our submarine O-12 to take part in Sir Hubert Wilkins' work of exploration in the Arctic.

Eventually, our fleet of submarines will be made useful, in peace, through exploration of the oceans, seas, lakes and land under them.

Engineers and surveyors will map out the mountains and valleys lying under the oceans. And the future will see submarine prospectors searching for mines and oil wells below the water, competing with modern prospectors now searching for treasure and oil for nations by airplanes.

DAVID JONES ARRESTED AT FOLLANSBEE

John Sands Fatally Shot in Pool Room.

FEUD IS BLAMED

Quarrel is Believed Election Contest Aftermath.

David Jones, 38, former East Liverpool patrolman and steel worker, is held today in the Brooke county jail at Wellsburg, W. Va., charged with the murder of John Sands, 43, of Follansbee, who died in the Ohio Valley hospital at Steubenville from bullet wounds suffered during a quarrel in a Follansbee pool room.

Prosecuting Attorney James R. Wilkin announced today that he will ask the Brooke county grand jury, now in session, to return a first degree murder indictment against Jones.

The shooting, Brooke county officials said, was an outgrowth of a feud which began more than a year ago, when Jones was defeated for the office of chief of police.

Pistol Duel in Pool Room. The two men met in the William Blakely barber shop and pool room. Without a word, Jones, police charge, opened fire on Sands who was sitting in a chair. The first shot struck Stewart Dunn, a bystander, grazing his right knee. Sands drew a gun from his pocket and pulled the trigger, but the shell failed to explode. Jones fired again but the shot went wild, police said. Sands fired a second time, the bullet striking through a plate glass window. Jones' third shot struck Sands in the head over the right eye. The victim dropped to the floor, but fired another shot which also went wild, witnesses said.

Following the shooting Jones returned to his home in Banfield avenue. He then walked to Main and Ohio streets where he was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Morrison.

Jones, it was indicated today, will plead self-defense.

Patrolman in 1919. Jones left East Liverpool about 10 years ago. He moved to Follansbee several years ago, where he was employed in a mill. He also operated a grocery store. He has a wife and a 2-year-old son. Jones' father, formerly lived in East Liverpool but is now on a farm back of Wellsville. A brother lives in Follansbee.

Jones was appointed a patrolman here in 1919. He served a short time. Sands was recently released from the Brooke county jail where he had been held on a liquor charge. He was arrested a second time, on a prohibition law count, and was convicted, but carried the case to the state supreme court. He was granted a stay of execution until the higher tribunal ruled on the application for a new trial.

POLICE CHIEF SHOT TO DEATH

Slain as He Investigates Alleged Disorderly House; Assailant Is Arrested.

ABSECON, N. J., June 3.—Chief of Police William M. Schoetlin, 41, of Absecon, was shot and killed early today, when he was mistaken for an intruder while investigating an alleged disorderly house. George Howard Much, 31, of Ventnor, N. J., was arrested, charged with the shooting. Three others, including two women, were held as material witnesses.

In a statement to police, Much said he had recently rented the place for a summer home. Early today he heard a knock at the door and then saw it opened by a man in civilian clothes. Fearing the man to be a robber, he said he fired a shot with the intention of scaring him off, only to see Schoetlin fall dead.

WIRES ARE CUT

Two Fugitives Recaptured Three Hours After Break.

By The Associated Press. IONIA, Mich., June 3.—Thirteen insane criminals, five of them slayers, armed themselves with knives and razors, imprisoned two guards, threatened the night supervisor with death and escaped from the Ionia State Hospital for the criminal insane today.

Two of the fugitives were recaptured on highways a few miles from the institution within a few hours while city, county and state officers engaged in a wide-spread search for the others.

Before leaving the institution the inmates opened cells releasing 24 prisoners but none of the others joined in the break. They also cut telephone wires.

Dr. Perry C. Robertson, superintendent of the hospital blamed the break on the limited facilities which made it necessary to imprison 18 men with dangerous reputations in a ward, rather than in separate cells.

HEART ATTACK EXACTS LIFE OF BOY BATHER

Frank Farrow's Body Found in Y. M. C. A. Pool.

11 YEARS OLD

Lungmotor and Artificial Respiration Used by Aides.

Believed to have suffered a heart attack, Frank Farrow, 11, son of Henry Farrow of Minerva street, was found dead in the Y. M. C. A. swimming pool at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Three members of the fire department, Dr. John A. Fraser and "Y" first aid workers, with a lungmotor, worked for more than two hours in an effort to resuscitate him. Less than a pint of water was found in his lungs, indicating that death had occurred before the boy struck the water.

The body was discovered in seven feet of water near the eastern end of the pool by Robert Kapp, 14, of Grant street, who touched it with his foot. He called Robert Stewart, a swimming instructor, who dove and brought the body to the surface.

Six instructors in pool. No one in the pool saw the boy fall into the water. About 20 boys and six instructors, two of them junior Red Cross life savers, were occupying the shallow part of the pool at the time of the boy's death. The body was cold when taken from the water.

Farrow went to the "Y" to enroll in the "learn-to-swim" campaign with two companions, Dale Thornton, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Offa Thornton of Cadmus street, and Robert Wain, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Wain, also of Cadmus street.

To guard against drowning during the campaign a heavy rope was stretched across the pool, the water being about three feet deep at the point where the barrier was placed. The class had just left the pool and gone into the locker room to dress when the body was found. Y. M. C. A. officials said that the boy had been seen and the pool a few minutes before his body was found.

Two Tanks of Oxygen Used

The class was in charge of William Higgins and Percy Harrison, and four boys, expert swimmers. About 184 boys were enrolled in the week's course of swimming instructions.

Two tanks of oxygen were used by firemen in an effort to revive the boy. The lungmotor was in charge of Fire Chief Thomas Bryan, Captain Clem Dawson and Fireman Mildred Shenkel. Boys' Work Secretary E. M. Carlton also worked over the boy for more than half an hour in an effort to resuscitate him through artificial respiration.

The body was removed to the Miller funeral home.

Henry Farrow, the father, who is employed in Charleston, W. Va., was notified of his son's death today. Mrs. Farrow died about two years ago. The boy had been living with his sister, Mrs. Sally Shields of Cadmus street. He was a fourth grade pupil in the Grant street school.

Besides Mrs. Shields, four sisters, May, Florence, Catherine and Ruth, and one brother, Edward, survive.

Blaze Threatens Port Arthur on Lake Erie

By The Associated Press. PORT ARTHUR, Ont., June 3.—With four persons believed dead, several others unaccounted for and numerous homesteads wiped out, rangers and volunteers today were battling a forest fire which threatened this town of 3,500 on the northwest shore of Lake Superior. Flames, driven across hundreds of miles of timberland and underbrush by winds of gale force, reached Brent Park, a suburb of Port Arthur, and many residents had abandoned their homes before the progress of the fire was checked.

The most serious condition prevailed in the vicinity of Hurkett, 25 miles east of here where William Mellensky, his wife and two children were believed to have perished when flames swept over their homestead.

Hundreds of acres in that locality had been burned over with the destruction of farmhouses and buildings. Rescue parties brought out a number of women and children whose farm-homes had been destroyed.

21 Workmen Trapped

A gang of 21 workmen was cut off by the flames at a camp of the Provincial Paper company north of Hurkett. Efforts to reach them by airplane were frustrated by the dense smoke.

Foresters said that unless rain falls soon there was little hope of saving several small communities in the path of the fire. Additional men and equipment were ordered into the area.

Across the lake in the vicinity of Sault Ste. Marie rangers were fighting brush fires in three districts.

The Ontario forestry department received word that the village of Dymont, 33 miles east of Dryden in the western part of the province, had been abandoned when a forest fire swept toward the community beyond control of a force of rangers and volunteers.

"Women and children were sent out of the village by train while the men remained behind to continue their fight against the flames. Airplane Pilot Missing.

Paul Garten, a pilot for the Western Canada Airways, was missing today after his plane was wrecked in an attempted landing on a lake at Allanwater, an air base. He was believed to have drowned. He had been engaged in forestry patrol duty in the vicinity of Sioux Lookout which has been threatened with destruction for four days and several thousand acres of land burned over, the first serious forest fires of the season in northern Minnesota today were reported under control, due in part to diminishing winds, according to word from Duluth.

The giant ship started on her homeward journey at 9:12 p. m. (E. S. T.) and at 10 o'clock was passing over New York City. At 1:10 a. m. she reported in a radio message, she was passing over Nantucket lightship, off the Massachusetts coast, about 215 miles from New York. Abducted White Child Lived Life of Indian.

By The Associated Press.
COLUMBUS, O., June 3.—The foster son of "Big Cat," chief of the Delaware, will be honored here today when the Franklin County Pioneer association meets and dedicates a meteorite to his memory.

For it was this white child who later founded Columbus. He was John Brickell—and in the ceremonies, which will be conducted at the foot of Long street, in this city, will participate his granddaughter, great granddaughter and great great grandson.

A tablet has been hewn out of a meteorite—one of the many which have flashed across the Ohio valley from the skies since time began—and at which the Indians cowered, feeling, with the impulses of pagan peoples everywhere, that the Great Being had dispatched by a celestial courier some awesome message.

Mrs. John H. Waters is the granddaughter of the pioneer. Mrs. Warren Barrett is the great granddaughter and Lloyd Barrett is her son.

Brickell was a child of ten years when the Indians abducted him from his father's farm near Pittsburgh. His captors led him across the Maumee river—where the chief of the Delaware's, Whitingy Poshies or "Big Cat" took a fancy to the white child. He lived as an adopted son with this kindly chief—who taught him the way the red men hunted wild game, the way they watched the stars and

PRISON GUARD
SERVES STATE
FOR 21 YEARS

Veteran Feels Tragedy of Easter Monday

REST ORDERED
Comments on Increase Of Pen's Population.

By The Associated Press.
COLUMBUS, O., June 3.—At the outer gate of Ohio penitentiary sits a grim, gray, ruddy little man.

Sometimes he peers intently inside the guard room, where his fellow workers are assembling for the day's duties. On other occasions his quick blue eyes are scanning the long hallway, into which the visitors come to see their relatives and friends who are convicts.

As he dusts the ashes from an old pipe, mellowed by years, he looks back with the tenderness of an aged man, to the memories he has stored within his mind during his 21 years of duty as a guard at the big penal institution.

His name is Captain John Hall, and despite his tendency to remember a useful past, he thinks little of the fact that he has served the state for so long a period.

Captain Hall, who, after the Easter Monday holocaust, which claimed the lives of 320 imprisoned men, recently requested of Warden Weston E. Thomas that he be removed from duty at the outer gate where he had faithfully served for two decades.

"The strain was too much—the tragedy too intense—and I am an old, old man now," he tells casual visitors, who find him interesting.

One of the guiding factors in the career of Captain Hall, who came to Columbus in 1909, is a strict adherence to duty. Duty has always come first with Captain Hall. What the warden has asked of Captain Hall, Captain Hall has always done.

When Captain Hall first came to Ohio penitentiary it was one of the way they dispensed justice, as the sole rulers of the new world.

He learned to speak the Delaware language as well as he did English.

But when "Mad" Anthony Wayne drove the red men from Ohio, the time came for an exchange of prisoners. Brickell did not want to return to the white people. The life with the Indians had been pleasant, and when he saw the blue-coated, bewigged soldiers of Wayne, he ran.

But "Big Cat" asked him to stand up, and then told him to make his choice—either to return to his own people or remain forever with the red men.

Brickell chose his kin. He made his way on horseback to visit his sister in Kentucky, where he remained, killing deer and turkeys for a living. He then bought a horse and rode back to Pennsylvania to see his brother at the very farm from which he was first abducted by the Indians.

From this place he came to the Scioto river valley in 1797. This spot he liked. There was quiet and peace, and a fertility which sooner or later, he was convinced, would produce good crops. He settled on the east bank of the stream. A community sprang up around him. He traded his plow for a bevel—and took up the trade of hat making.

After a prosperous life he died in this city but one year before the outbreak of the Mexican War, in 1847.

the model institutions in the state. Its population at that time was just 1760, and during the first year of his employment there Captain Hall saw this number reduced to 1500. Thomas Jones was then warden. At the time he called Captain Hall aside, and whispered playfully that he thought the number would be reduced even further during the next year. However, this did not take place. Instead this number continued to increase, until under the supervision of Warden Thomas, just before the recent fire, the population had risen to the amazing total of almost 5,000.

"Perhaps the modern way of living causes more crime," says Captain Hall, with the profundity of a Diogenes.

The disaster Easter Monday made a noticeable change in this veteran guard. The work and worry heaped on his aging shoulders the hectic week following the fire broke his health.

"After the terrible disaster I guess I couldn't stand the pace," declares Captain Hall, as he lights his pipe, "so they told me to take a good rest."

But, Captain Hall believes, he will never take a complete vacation.

"I guess I have worked too long and too hard for that," he smiles, "work never hurt anybody, and I surmise I am good for several more years."

Among the unpleasant memories come happier ones, which Captain Hall delights to relate. "One of these is about a prisoner named John Tarborn, who had served 42 years behind the walls as a 'flier.' During these years he had never set foot outside of big, gray walls.

One day Warden Jones, according to Captain Hall, decided that it would be a good thing to take Tarborn to the prison farm, then located near Orient. At first the old prisoner didn't want to go. Finally he was persuaded it would be a good trip for him.

"When he got outside," chuckles the veteran guard, "I never saw a more surprised man than he was. He stopped and stared at all buildings. He filled his lungs with fresh air. When he was paroled he tried to gain admittance to the penitentiary, claiming he felt at home there. But this was denied him."

What is a WANT AD?

Want ads offer so many opportunities to their readers that they should be called "opportunity ads."

They appear in The Review in a section all their own—the Want Ad Section—in the back part of the paper. Every day they offer an endless variety of opportunities . . . positions to be filled, houses for sale and rent, rooms and apartments, stores and businesses and merchandise of every description from bird cages to fur coats. The Want Ads find folks who will pay cash for such articles that they need—articles that you no longer use.

You can use Want Ads to get the extra money that everyone needs at times. Review Want Ads get results surely and quickly.

Why not look around the house now and list the articles you have, but don't need. Then phone The Review, Main 45. An efficient, courteous Ad-tell her to charge it. A bill will be mailed to you the next day.

The Review

MAIN 45

In testifying in a case at Liverpool, England, in which the print of a finger on a piece of glass was the chief evidence, H. Cooke, police fingerprint expert, testified that fingerprint evidence is infallible.

When her airplane recently turned a somersault at Cramlington, England, Miss C. R. Lethart, the pilot escaped without injury.

When tempted to over-indulge

"Reach for a Lucky instead"

Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Avoid that future shadow* by avoiding over-indulgence, if you would maintain that modern, ever-youthful figure. "Reach for a Lucky instead."

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Lucky Strike has an extra, secret heating process. Everyone knows that heat purifies and so 20,679 physicians say that Luckies are less irritating to your throat.

"It's toasted"

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough

*"No special dietary, but moderation in eating and drinking and not more than three meals daily," is Dr. F. McKelvey Bell's advice in the New York Medical Journal to all men and women who want to keep a proper figure. We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky instead," you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

Dr. Doran's Job.

Dr. James M. Doran, prohibition commissioner of the United States, has a difficult post to serve. The multitude which snarls at his heels is held together by a kind of negative unity. Some blame him for trying to enforce the Volstead act; others blame him for not enforcing it enough. Dr. Doran's worries, however, are not those which come from trying to decide the issue. Prohibition enforcement to him is a task—his job.

It became apparent some months ago that one of the neglected steps in the national enforcement was education. Accordingly, congress appropriated $50,000 for "prohibition education." Dr. Doran's monograph on "state cooperation in enforcement of national prohibition laws," which was published June 1, is purported to be an educational measure. It assumes particular significance in view of the recent enactment of the Williamson bill transferring prohibition enforcement machinery from the treasury department to the department of justice. The prominence which it gives the states in the discussion of enforcement follows closely the statement from the commission on law enforcement and observance, which held state participation to be of paramount importance, and Dwight W. Morrow's advocacy of a return to state control of prohibition.

Dr. Doran does not whop it up for his department. The enforcement machinery under his charge is ready to serve as efficiently as it can. One gathers, however, that the commissioner is very anxious to let the public know that he has but 2,000 active enforcement agents, while the states have some 200,000, who may be described in many cases as potential agents. The trouble described by Dr. Doran is, that the federal government, which is supposed to do what the states don't do, has been left holding the bag in enforcement. This unwelcome position has been forced on the judicial department, too, where 166 federal judges are doing the prohibition law work which should be distributed among some 3,100 state, county and municipal judges.

The Volstead act, Commissioner Doran reminds the public, was not new legislation but a composite of all the state laws in effect in 1919. Fifty-one million inhabitants in 32 states had been living under dry rule for years prior to national prohibition, yet a few months after it became effective a "strange thing" happened. Law-abiding citizens drifted into the habit of violating the dry act, their infatuations eased by a lack of preparedness on the part of the United States government to take over the huge task of enforcing such an important law over such a wide territory. Weis, of course, affirm that they "drifted because clever fellows had put something over on them that they did not want and do not want. Dr. Doran, interested in doing his job well, cannot have much patience with that sort of reasoning. His duty is to enforce the law, right or wrong.

"Cooperation" is the important word in Dr. Doran's monograph, leading up to the final conclusion that cooperation depends in the last analysis on public opinion. He points out that "many states have liquor laws more strict than the national prohibition act." Were these laws also put on the books as "sleepers?" what will public opinion do with them?

Dr. Doran has made neither a defense nor sales talk. He is anxious to carry out the assignment which has been given him, lacking cooperation from the states he makes a statement which, although it is "educational," bears a strong resemblance to Pontius Pilate's most famous sentence. Dr. Doran is still ready to do everything he can to acquit himself creditably but there has been a sad lack of common sense, foresight and cooperation among those who hold him responsible for prohibition enforcement. More and more, prohibition is being mentioned in connection with the states. The statement from the commission on law enforcement and observance, Ambassador Morrow and not Commissioner Doran have placed the responsibility there.

The Communist party has selected William Z. Foster as its candidate for governor of New York. The fact that Mr. Foster happens to be in jail will hamper the style of some of his campaign workers who won't care to go into conference with him there.

The Last Call.

An opportunity is offered to make the efficiency of the census in East Liverpool as close to 100 per cent as possible. Mrs. Ha Marshall Cronin, supervisor for the district, has announced that the drive to list all residents of the city will close within a few days.

Enough publicity has been given the activities of the census takers to make their work familiar to every man, woman and child in the United States, yet there are probably hundreds in every city who have not been counted. Some of them assume that if the census taker does not find them, they are absolved from blame. Others, through misunderstanding or perversity, refuse to cooperate with the government in its gigantic project. Both groups owe it to their nation to be numbered among its citizens. If a census taker has not found you, call the census bureau and make yourself known. It is your last chance until another decade passes.

A Good Bill Passes.

A good bill was signed by President Hoover last week, but so peaceful was its passage through congress that few people knew of it. Good legislation, like good behavior, does not attract much attention in the presence of doubtful legislation.

The Ransdell bill, which has been commended to congress repeatedly by medical organizations and distinguished men of science, authorizes a National Institute of Health. In operation, such an organization will open the way for research projects which have hitherto been restricted by too meager facilities and funds. It will enable the government to devote to human health a quality and quantity of expert study commensurate with the efforts it expends on the hygiene of plants and animals.

The present hygienic laboratory in Washington will be the nucleus of the new organization. This far famed institution, which is under the control of the surgeon general, has made possible some of the greatest steps taken in solving the problems of the diseases of man. If the greater institution which is to be built around it can retain the fine, unselfish spirit which has been manifest in its activities, the National Institute of Health will be one of the world's greatest social projects.

Senator Ransdell of Louisiana, whose unflagging interest and perseverance have brought action on this important public health measure, considers the project "one of the most important ever enacted by congress in the interest of humanity." Long after controversies of the year 1920 have been forgotten, the National Institute of Health will continue to point out the path of improved health for the American people.

Indianapolis is consoling itself with the "great things in small packages" gag. The census count wasn't so good there, either.

GOING THEIR OWN WAY

Cambridge and Boston note a decreasing interest in baseball at Harvard. Not so many years ago important games attracted the attention not only of much of the student body but of the public also; but no more. And what is true at Harvard is doubly true at a majority of American colleges. In many of them baseball has been dropped entirely; in others it is still maintained for the benefit of students who cannot qualify for the "major sports," but it is played to empty stands.

The reason? It is a little early to say, but there are indications that the intramural program encouraged by athletic departments everywhere is responsible for much of the declining interest in many varsity sports. Instead of going in large numbers to watch nine men uphold the honor of alma mater, more and more undergraduates are participating in intramural activities; playing indoor baseball, tennis, golf, rowing, where the facilities exist, and what not.

Even football, it appears, is not entirely immune to this sport revolution. Attendance at major games remains large, but the undergraduate attitude is changing. Students in the cheering sections at major games last fall were observed to walk out before the final whistle blew. They felt little obligation to remain on the scene to give the gridiron warriors moral support and to carry them off the field irrespective of the score. And when the home team lost a large number of undergraduates took defeat with surprising stoicism.

It is early, perhaps, to assert that the major college sports have passed the peak of their popularity. But it is not premature to say that a larger number of undergraduates are doing their own playing, and are permitting the varsity teams to go their own way. And that, it will be generally agreed, is not an unwelcome development.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

FIRST CANAL BOATS IN OHIO

For The Associated Press.

By J. H. Galbraith.

The first canal boats operated on the Ohio canals moved over the stretch between Akron and Cleveland. This was the most expensive piece of the Ohio canals to be constructed—the 31 miles having 41 locks and three considerable aqueducts; yet it was the first to be finished. The watersheds across Ohio approaches very close to the lake shore at this point, and by the time the canal reaches Akron, it has well nigh climbed to the crest dividing the waters that flow into the Mississippi basin from those which run into the St. Lawrence basin.

It was on July 4, 1827, that the first Ohio canal boat was navigated from Akron to Cleveland. That was exactly two years from the day when ground was first broken in the construction of the canals. The boat carried a large party of people, mostly officials, and crowds gathered from all parts of the surrounding country to see the boats pass. Governor Trimble thought the matter important enough to treat of it in his annual message to the legislature. In November of that same year a portion of the southern end of the Miami and Erie Canal was completed and three canal boats were navigated upon it from Cincinnati to Middletown on Nov. 28. They were crowded with people anxious to experience the sensation of traveling by this new method. It was recorded that the boats made the remarkable speed of three miles an hour, including detentions at the locks and other delays attendant upon the operation of the canal. The inauguration of the Twentieth Century limited in our own time hardly excited more interest than the beginning of the operation of canal boats in Ohio.

SIMPLIFYING HIS HOME WORK

New York Day By Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 3—Beer drink-ers who deserted the Yorkville braustubbers to dally with the Hoboken brew have drifted back again and Yorkville is merry with the table tapping of seidels and lilt of German song. The section is in the East Eighties and is wide open.

Yorkville for years has been a German district, and before prohibition was the home of innumerable workers employed in the various breweries abounding there. With the national drought, Yorkville life seemed to stagnate with melancholy. Entire blocks became vacant store rooms.

Old men and their hausfraus sat about on cheerless front stoops sighing for other days. Then about two years ago came a renaissance. In one block alone there opened a dozen hofbraus and rathskellers featuring deep drinking mugs, mottoed mats and German dishes.

There were singing waiters, mechanical pianos and song leaders who led patrons in the collective singing of old songs. Broadway flocked there after the play. Then some of the places began to "needle" the beer—a process of injecting ether into prohibition brew.

Those who participated in the merry evening awakened with thumping headaches and accompanying groans. Ach, du lieber! About this time Hoboken with its wide open saloons, German restaurants and the old time melodrama made its sweeping bow.

Yorkville once more suffered the pangs of engulmment. Everybody set forth to see the Christopher Morley experiment in Jersey, tank up on a foaming stein and hear villains in "After Dark or Neither Maid, Wife nor Widow." Morley and his cohorts were on the way to enormous riches.

Then something happened to Hoboken just as it often happens to pleasure haunts springing up so quickly these days. Revenue officers began to tighten up the merry making. Patrol wagons clanged through streets. So the pendulum swung back. And Yorkville got the beer guzzling crowds again.

How To Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

THERE are many persons who do a great deal of worrying over the prospect of inheriting some disease that occurred in the family generations before. Perhaps it is natural to worry over a thing of this sort.

There is no need of being frightened about it. Everyone should understand this.

It is true that one may have a certain disease which may have occurred in generations that have gone before. But having a tendency to a disease is quite a different matter from actually having the disease. It is possible to train one's self to good habits of living so that the tendency in question is counteracted.

There are very few diseases in which heredity has any bearing whatsoever. Certain physical traits run in families, and the habits of one generation may be handed down to the next. You may inherit a prominent nose from your father, or from your grandfather. Our walk may be characteristic of your father.

Just because your mother was narrow chested and had tuberculosis is no reason why you should have the disease, even though you are narrow-chested. You may have the same anatomy and a tendency to tuberculosis, but you have the power to fix good habits of living so that you build up resistance to that disease.

By keeping your body well nourished, by avoiding all habits that lower resistance of the body, you are pretty safe against all disease.

The Reviewing Stand

By TOM T. JONES

AMONG other East Liverpool residents who recall the night in the seventies when two elephants were kept for the night in a Market street barn because of the heavy snow storm that prevailed which made impossible the trip to the circus grounds are Wayne Welch of Third street and Holland Manley who lives in California Hollow.

Both meeting in the same structure in which the pachyderms were then kept on a recent evening indulged in reminiscences of that event which was regarded by all of the young folks of that day as standing out in early East Liverpool annals.

They recall how the elephants belonging to the old John Robinson circus were brought from the boat upon which they had been loaded at Cincinnati, Ohio, at the outset of the spring trip. Indeed, they even recalled the section in the barn in which they were placed for the night. This happened to be the southwest corner. Thus the huge animals were near the street.

This fact naturally served to have the lads of those days remain for a considerable period about the place. In the manner of boys they began to feed them peanuts and everything they could procure at the moment. Finally two of the young men present, according to Mr. Manley, proffered a good-sized chew of tobacco to the elephants. They extended their trunks in the usual manner and swallowed the offerings.

But the tobacco did not agree with the stomach juices of the once African denizens. They took a good look at the persons who had contributed the gifts. And these looks were not of an appealing nature which made the boys investigate the temperaments of elephants. Somehow they found out that elephants had the Indian tendency of never forgetting, particularly the faces of those feeding them in such a manner.

Ever after that when the John Robinson show came to East Liverpool these young men invariably left town, Mr. Manley declared. "They refused to take chances on the memory of these elephants should they make an appearance before them."

FOR several years Mr. Manley has been living upon the hillside in California Hollow where he has cultivated sage and other products of the garden. Because of the constant blasting of rock while the roadway has been built some distance away from his place the earth has been loosened, he says, which has caused several serious slips close to his house. He has been enabled to bolster it to a point of security, he believes.

Situated among the trees of the locality he has an appealing place for the kind of gardening in which he has been engaged. At intervals he comes into town to visit those of his close acquaintances. He recalls a former race horse named "January" which his brother at one time drove about the city. In its day it had a high pacing mark. On occasions it would give vent to its former speed which made it impossible for its rider to hold him within due bounds. As a result there were some disasters by the quick contact of the spirited animal with passing traffic of that day.

For years during his young manhood Mr. Welch resided in and about West Point. He recalls vividly that Sunday morning in July of 1863 when the rebel raider, General John Morgan, was captured just a short distance away upon the Crubaugh farm. In fact, he and his father witnessed the deliberations just following the surrender. He remembers the tree under which the surrender took place.

He yet has in his memory the spectacle of the soldiers deploying and starting with the captured pieces of the period as about 16 feet in length and made from two long pieces of hickory or white oak. At the rear section of these long pieces of wood were placed four extensions of wood or posts. On top of these were laid a small log. The fore-front of these long pieces of wood were used as shafts for a horse. Two iron hooks were placed in their sides farther back to which the chains from the harness were attached. Then the horse was hitched or hooked to the "Yankee Jumper." All then that was needed was to mount the log. Usually it was about four feet in length.

DRIVEN out into the roadways that had been smoothed out by the sleds and sleighs of the period these "Yankee Jumpers" assumed the proportions of a fast car or a speeding yacht upon a body of water. There was no limit save the maximum speed of the horse by which they could be taken over the snow.

And sitting some four feet from the ground and astride the log while the lad in front guided with reins the fast moving animal, the whole procedure made for a thrill which young men of the present day with all of their modern automobiles fall short in comparison.

DAIRY MARKET HIT HARD BY COOL WEATHER

Farmers Report Drop
In Use of Pro-

NEW LOW PRICES
Cold Storage Holdings Of Butter Increase.

By The Associated Press.
COLUMBUS, O., June 3. — The under consumption of butter and cream still is the heaviest load which Ohio dairymen have to bear, according to a bulletin issued here today by the Ohio Farm Bureau.

There is, the bulletin states, no widespread overproduction in comparison with normal demand. Apparently, the bulletin states, the change to cooler weather has checked the consumption of cream in the form of ice cream and other products.

Ohio farmers, says the bulletin, have greatly increased their own consumption of cream and butter and have reduced their dairy herds, but it seems that their efforts must be increased along these lines before prices rise to a satisfactory basis.

Sweet cream, says the bulletin, is selling in New York City on a basis of around $15 a can, which is an almost unheard of low price for this time of year.

This low price is in part the result of cooler weather, but it may reflect the decreased buying power of the public.

When cream prices are low there is likely to be a tendency on the part of the farmers to be a little careless as to quality, with the result that there accumulates on the market a considerable quantity of low grade cream which holds down the price for lower grades and better grades as well. Sweet cream is now held in storage, says the bulletin, and frozen, so that accumulations can readily become a burden on the markets.

Ohio farmers, the bulletin continues, in some sections of the state, who are turning from milk to cream must hold in mind this fact of possibly wide fluctuations in the price of cream.

Cold storage holdings of butter are increasing rather rapidly in the face of steady receipts, which means that consumption of butter is not maintained as it should be.

Retailers in the city, states the bulletin, have cooperated to the extent of reducing margins of profits with the result that the consumer is today obtaining full benefit of the low prices which are paid to farmers.

The public is realizing this as never before the high food value of butter in comparison with other fats and butter substitutes. The increased use of butter had been most noticeable in the cities.

Butter and cream, the bulletin continues, are now so low in price that farmers should do everything possible to increase their own consumption of these products as substitutes for other products which are not produced on the farm.

Low priced eggs and low priced butter should make up a pretty big part of the farmer's food, says the bulletin. It is not only a matter of enjoying these high grade food products, but every pound of butter and quart of cream used in the country means that much less of a load for the markets to stand up under.

A recent increase in the price of fat cows on the markets suggests that the unloading process in dairy herds may not have gone to the extent which should have been done in order to reduce the production of dairy products to the point of meeting the decreased consumption.

The bulletin further states that some time may elapse before the public is again taking these profits and products as should be done, so that the selling off process of fat cows should continue without abatement.

The oncoming grass season, the bulletin explains, has induced farmers to hold cows for the coming season.

This will make possible, it is believed a more profitable marketing arrangement in the end.

DREDGERS CUT RIVER CHANNEL

Boats at Work Near Locks No 8 and
No. 7.

Intensive dredging operations have been started in the upper Ohio river district with two boats working in local territory. The United States dredge Oswego is stationed at lock No. 8 below here while the United States dredge Ohio is clearing the channel below lock No. 7 at Midland. Several other dredges are in operation in the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers.

Traffic on the Ohio river was heavy here over the week-end. The following boats were looked through Dam No. 8: the La Belle, Pittsburgh to Weirton, with nine barges of coal and back with 12 empty barges; the Senator Cordill, Cincinnati to Pittsburgh, with 100 tons of merchandise and back with 125 tons; the Cruiser, Pittsburgh to Steubenville, with six barges of coal and back with eight empty barges; the William G. Clyde, Pittsburgh to Mingo, with five barges of coke and one barge of flue dust and back with five empty barges; the Liberty, Charleston to Pittsburgh; the Maggie Mae, Follansbee to Pittsburgh; the Criterion, Pittsburgh to Mingo, with three empty barges, and the Bellefonte, Pittsburgh to Memphis, with four barges of pipes.

SEEK REFORMS IN CURRICULUM

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—The latest crusading editors of Yale Daily News are out to reform the Yale curriculum by proposing an academic concentration plan by which thirty men would be chosen by the college dean from each class that finishes its sophomore year, and being freed from all routine requirements, would spend the next two years concentrating on some educational problem of their own selection. The plan provides that the faculty should require the students to work for a comprehensive examination or prepare a thesis, and that grades be given either when their work is done or at the end of each year. The only actual requirement is residence in New Haven.

PLAYS BRIDGE, BOSS OBJECTS

St. LOUIS. — The game of "bridge" apparently isn't as trivial as most husbands would have their wives believe. Coach Glen Filley of McKendree college here recently resigned, intimating that President Cameron was absolutely against his re-election for the reason that he accused Filley of playing "bridge." If a man can't play bridge without involving himself in such a manner," exclaimed Filley. "There ought to be a law." When their wages were reduced by a cent an hour, a number of unemployed miners of South Wales who had been given work on a road at Stanford-le-Hope, England, struck immediately.

PENSION BILL PASSED OVER HOOVER VETO

Spanish-American War Veterans' Law On Books.

VOTES PILE UP Democrats and Western Republicans Join Forces.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Enacted over the veto of President Hoover, a new law for the payment of pensions to veterans of the Spanish-American war today took its place upon the statute books of the nation.

Substantial majorities in both branches of congress voted late yesterday to pass the measure in spite of the chief executive's disapproval. The senate vote was 61 to 18 and that of the house 285 to 14.

On both roll calls the Democrats voted solidly against the president while a group of administration dependables supported his position. The western Independent Republicans joined the Democrats of the senate in approving the bill.

In returning the pension measure to congress, Mr. Hoover objected to it on the ground that it would authorize the payment of compensation to veterans for disabilities arising from their own "vicious habits," that it made no requirement of need as well as disability in the awarding of pensions and that it lowered unduly the minimum period of service required for non-service disability compensation.

Before the veto was taken up by the house, Chairman Keaton of the pensions committee, brought word from the White House that Mr. Hoover was ready to approve a modified measure. The committee chairman sought to postpone a vote on the veto until Thursday, but was unsuccessful.

By The Associated Press.
CHICAGO, June 3.—Southern California's Trojans, winners of every track and field honor for which they have tried this year, pulled into Chicago today in quest of one more title—the National Collegiate Athletic association championship at Stage Field Friday and Saturday.

It was not expected that the whole U. S. C. team would compete but enough were figured upon to spread out competition. A century of the centuries would result with Frank Wykoff, winner of the 100 in the I. C. A. A. A. championships at Harvard last week, George Simpson of Ohio State, Eddie Tolan of Michigan and Hubert Meier of Iowa State, as the top liners. Wykoff, Simpson and Meier have marks of .094, while Tolan is the recognized world record holder at .095.

Lee Sentman of Illinois, winner of the high and low hurdle events in the Big Ten meet two weeks ago, will be back after two more tries. He will, however, encounter the best competition available in William Carlis, Southern California star, who won the 100 in the east last week at .23.7, and Dick Rockaway of Ohio State, compete. Sentman won the event in .23.3 at Evanston, and took the high hurdles in .14.9. The latter mark was not his best, however, he finished in .14.6 in the Kansas relays.

WOMEN GOLFERS PLAY FOR TITLE

By The Associated Press.
TULSA, Okla., June 3.—Led by Mrs. Dorothy Klotz Pardue, of Sioux City, Ia., 32 expert feminine wielders of wood and iron today entered championship play for the 1930 trans-Mississippi golf crown. The 32 remained out of a field of 180 players who sought to qualify in yesterday's 18-hole test. While most of the favorites survived the qualifying round, they were forced to battle against a stiff south wind and the threats of many lesser known players whose cards failed of admittance to the select group by only two or three strokes.

The 96 contestants whose scores ranked next to the first 32 were grouped into six minor flights of 16 players each. A trophy is being offered in each flight.

Mrs. Pardue, who declined an invitation to become a member of the American women's team now playing in Europe, carried off medalist honors with an 83 for the qualifying round. Mrs. Hubert Clarke of Oklahoma City stroked her way into second place with an 84.

Westinghouse REFRIGERATOR

WESTINGHOUSE has succeeded in producing the first refrigerator which has all three refinements required by the modern housewife!

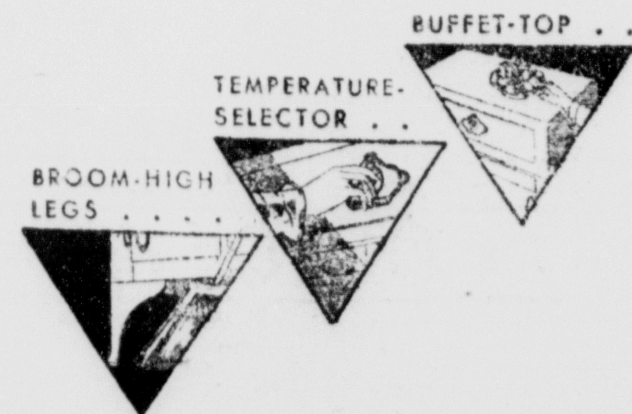

It provides the convenience of the Buffet-Top—which is really the top of the hood. It offers an outside shelf especially handy when food is being taken from or replaced in the cabinet. Step-saving, time-saving—this refinement simplifies your food preparation.

The Temperature Selector—A legible dial with seven freezing speeds—each one of which is automatically maintained—is placed on the center front panel, arm-high, where it is most easily adjusted. This efficient regulator hurries up ice cubes and desserts.

Broom-High Legs allow a full eleven-inch clearance for sweeping and cleaning. Their broad, flat glider feet protect your floor covering.

These unusual advantages were made possible by the compact, hermetically sealed mechanism which Westinghouse developed after over twelve years' experiments. It is small enough to tuck under the hood—to permit the many refinements which the new Westinghouse offers.

All these desirable qualities have been built into but one refrigerator! May we show you these points... the improved mechanism of the new Westinghouse... and its many other features?

Murder At High Tide

Pulsating Story of Revenge and Romance By CHARLES G. BOOTH

SYNOPSIS: A dozen enigmas face investigators after the battle of Dan Parados is murdered. Clues become even more baffling when Anatole Flaque, a detective from Paris, tells a story of three French criminals, one of whom was identified as the purchaser of a jade phoenix. Parados' token of luck was such a phoenix. It has disappeared. Alan Hunt, a young antique dealer "stalled" on Parados' island during the murder quiz, finds himself locked out of the house after midnight. He enters a window to a room where Parados' art collection is kept, hears a noise in the dark and senses an intruder. He moves so wily as the trespasser, catches his leg in a chair and falls headlong as the pursued one flees.

Chapter 16
THE BROKEN CODESS
THE impact with which I came down was pretty severe, and some ten seconds elapsed before I was able to climb on to my feet. A door which had softly opened as I softly closed, it was the hall door, and as I threw myself upon it a key turned in the lock on the other side. I tried the handle. The door held.

Furious at myself, I switched on the light. The Brent collection was intact, apparently. My eyes then fell upon the door of the library, and I hurried toward it. The door was unlocked, and I pushed into the room beyond, hoping that the door between the library and the hall would be also. The darkness was heavy, and I found myself holding my breath and shivering.

To my dismay, the door was locked. Samuels would have the key in his pocket. All chance of getting a glimpse of the intruder was gone now. I switched on the light, and the shadows vanished into themselves. Feeling better, I glanced across the room at the sheeted figure on the couch. Parados was dead in the flesh only; the evil he had done still lived.

Putting out the light, I returned to the billiard room wondering what I should do.

It occurred to me then that some door or other lower window of the house might have been inadvertently left open. I would try all of them, Miss Jahries' window excepted. If all were fastened, I would rouse Miss Jahries.

It so happened that the first door I tried was open, and I found myself, much to my relief, in the kitchen. I passed into the hall, where a ceiling lamp burned. I looked into the dining room, the drawing room and the sun room as a matter of course, but there was no one about.

It occurred to me that it might be wise to rouse Flaque and tell him of my experience, but I decided morning would do as well.

As I reached the head of the stair I was attracted by a thread of light beneath the door nearest me. I concluded that the occupant of this room was the person who had locked me in the billiard room.

I decided to go to bed and find out who occupied the room in the morning.

But as I entered my room at the head of the corridor, a door latch clicked. I edged one eye around the frame of the door. To my astonishment, Miss Jahries thrust her head out of the door of the room

I had been speculating about, turned it right and left, and completely emerged from the room. A light switched clicked, a door closed. Miss Jahries listened intently for a moment, then ran swiftly down the stair.

"That's not her room," I muttered in perplexity. "I wonder whose it is. And I wonder what she was doing in it at this hour of the morning."

Footsteps on the stair became audible a moment later—Miss Jahries' had been noiseless—and as I glanced around the door Cella and Annersley ascended into view. At the top of the stair they embraced tenderly.

"Good night, Claude."

"Good night, dear."

She ran swiftly along the hall and turned into the east wing. Annersley stood staring in the direction in which she had gone; then he pushed into the room Miss Jahries had left five minutes before.

I had been waiting to see what room he would enter, but I had not seriously considered the possibility that it would be the one Miss Jahries had left, and I shut my own door more bewildered than ever.

Miss Jahries and Annersley were allies, I had supposed. To find Miss Jahries enacting the appearance of something else took all the starch out of my theories. Had Miss Jahries been seeking for something that Annersley did not want her to find, I wondered?

"And now Miss Jahries," I muttered. "I wonder who'll be the next?"

That had been Samuels' phrase, and I went to bed with it echoing in my brain.

I awoke around seven. It took me a minute or so to orientate myself; then I sprang out of bed and dressed. Going downstairs, I found Flaque in the sun room smoking one of his small cigars and laboriously reading an American newspaper.

"Bon our, mon ami," he beamed at me. "You are early."

"Not so early as you are," I reminded him.

"True, but I am Anatole Flaque," and his tone implied that therein lay a difference. "That was a tragic affair last night, M. l'Antiquaire."

I nodded soberly. "Do you think Samuels will be able to solve it?"

Flaque twirled his moustache. "An excellent fellow, that Samuels, but he has not the inward eye," Flaque shrugged. "How did you rest?"

"Well, how about yourself?"

"As a little child. It is always so. But I was up with the lark, for I desired to observe the—what is it?—eucalyptus trees."

I knew what he meant. "One of them slashed Grainger across the cheek."

"Only it did not."

DEMOCRATS GO TO STATE MEET ON THURSDAY

Eyes of Ohio Turn To "Victory Dinner."

2,000 TO ATTEND

Pomerene, Donahey, Davey Will be Guests.

BY MURRAY POWERS.

Staff Correspondent of the Review.
COLUMBUS, O., June 3.—Eyes of political Ohio will turn again this week to this capital city. With two large Republican gatherings, of both men and women already held, Democrats will launch their statewide campaign here Thursday night with a "victory dinner."

In the past few weeks there has been comparatively little Democratic activity, aside from a few district rallies at which the gubernatorial and senatorial candidates appeared and spoke. Otherwise all efforts have been turned to making the meeting here Thursday night a success.

In the anticipation that about 2,000 Democrats will attend the rally has been transferred from a local hotel to Memorial hall. J. J. House, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, is to be the principal speaker; while James M. Cox, former governor of Ohio, will be the toastmaster and George White, Democratic candidate for governor, will be another speaker.

In addition to these three many of those prominent in Ohio Democracy will be present, including Altee Pomerene, A. Vic Donahey, Martin L. Davey, Mrs. Bernice Pyke and a large number of state candidates, both declared and prospective.

McCulloch Petitions Ready.
Considerable attention was devoted in the last week to the candidacy and attitude of U. S. Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch of Canton. While Senator McCulloch has not yet filed a declaration of candidacy with Secretary of State Clarence Brown, his petitions are said to be ready and it is likely that he will file shortly. He has been endorsed by Republican organizations in 73 of the 88 Ohio counties. It is declared.

Advices from Washington declare that Senator McCulloch will have the backing of both the Hoover and Cooper administrations and he in turn will make the endorsement of both the present national and state administrations a part of his program of candidacy.

The junior Ohio senator in the time he has spent in the senate has identified himself as a consistent supporter of the Hoover administration, recently rising to the floor to speak in behalf of the confirmation of Judge John J. Parker who had been appointed to the supreme court bench and who later was rejected by the senate. In his Ohio talks McCulloch also has repeatedly pledged his support to President Hoover.

Hopkins' Name Mentioned.
With this campaign, if he is successful, McCulloch will have but a short time in the senate as the term he desires to serve is only that portion left through the deaths of Senator Frank B. Willis and Senator Theodore Burton. This term ends in 1931 and if he wishes to continue in the senate he must again seek election in 1932 for the full six-year term.

While many rumors of Republican opposition have been heard Senator McCulloch still is the only actual candidate in the field. The latest prospect reported is William R. Hopkins, former city manager of Cleveland. His only statement after published reports that he would be a candidate was "no other person was so surprised as I to read the statement in this morning's paper regarding the possibility of my being a candidate."

Taft Senate Candidate.
An important announcement in Ohio legislative politics came out of Cincinnati this week in that Robert Taft, former member of the state house of representatives, would be pushed forward as a candidate for the Ohio senate from Cincinnati. Taft was not a member of the last legislature, but prior to that was speaker of the house.

The two other candidates for the senate from Cincinnati, it is said, will be Cliff Martin and Mrs. May B. Van, up for reelection.

Taft has been prominent in taxation matters, as an author of several Ohio tax laws and as a leader in the fight last fall for the passage of the tax classification amendment. He is now a member of the statewide committee studying plans for a new plan of taxation under the classification

"He was lying, then?"

"It is a house full of lies, M. l'Antiquaire. But you, also, have something to tell. I see it in your eye."

He listened attentively as I told him, now and then nodding in his animated way.

"Yes, yes, you did well. It is clear that you are a man of intelligence. An extraordinary woman, that Mademoiselle Jahries. But come, I have something to show you."

Flaque led me down the hall to the library door, which he unlocked, and across the room to the sheeted figure on the couch. My curiosity was at fever heat. With a dramatic gesture he flung the sheet back.

"Voila!" he exclaimed.

On the breast of the body of Parados, lay the jade phoenix—broken in two.

More mystery afoot! Tomorrow Flaque hits upon some new clues.

amendment.

Another member of the general assembly and prominent in the past, particularly in defense of the rural population, will be a candidate for state senator this year. He is Dallas Sullivan of Union county. He is now serving his fourth term as representative. He will seek to serve as state senator from the 133rd district. The district is eligible to two senators and four candidates are now out, the others being Senator Robert Rolle of Tiffin, J. H. Gordon of Logan county, and W. H. Harder of Marion.

White Attacks Cooper.

Among other political features of last week were the continued attack of George White, Democratic candidate for governor, on Gov. Myers Y. Cooper's administration. White spoke at Montpelier and charged the executive with encroaching on the prerogatives of State Auditor Joseph Tracy and transferring the auditor's effective check on state expenditures to the director of finance.

Columbus women, opposed to the Eighteenth amendment, also organized a Columbus branch of the women's organization for national prohibition reform, electing Miss Charlotte Nicholas of Bexley secretary. Twenty-nine women were named to the temporary advisory council and those chosen executive committee members and chairman. Mrs. Marion Booth Kelley of New York outlined the organization.

today reserved his decision in the case of George Lenardos, who pleaded guilty to a charge of possessing baseball pools. He is at liberty on $56 bond.

Lenardos was arrested in the Diamond pool room Saturday night by Patrolman Shenke, Fred Wilson who is alleged to have attempted to destroy pool tickets when the patrolman entered, was arrested upon a charge of interfering with an officer. In giant washtubs Sohio Motor Oil is cleansed of hidden impurities to give it controlled viscosity

Towering against the sky at the Standard Oil Company refineries in Cleveland, stands a great battery of these specially constructed "washtubs". Here Sohio Motor Oil is scientifically washed and rinsed with cleansing chemicals to remove carbon-forming impurities.

It is by such painstaking methods . . . a long series of them . . . that Standard Oil's lubrication engineers are able to secure definite control of every element composing the viscosity, or "Body" of New Sohio Motor Oil. Purity, toughness, flexibility, smoothness . . . all these desirable qualities are skillfully combined . . . each given its rightful importance. The result is a lubricant of remarkable coordinated strength.

So, "Controlled Viscosity" is your assurance that, summer or winter, you will get these advantages:

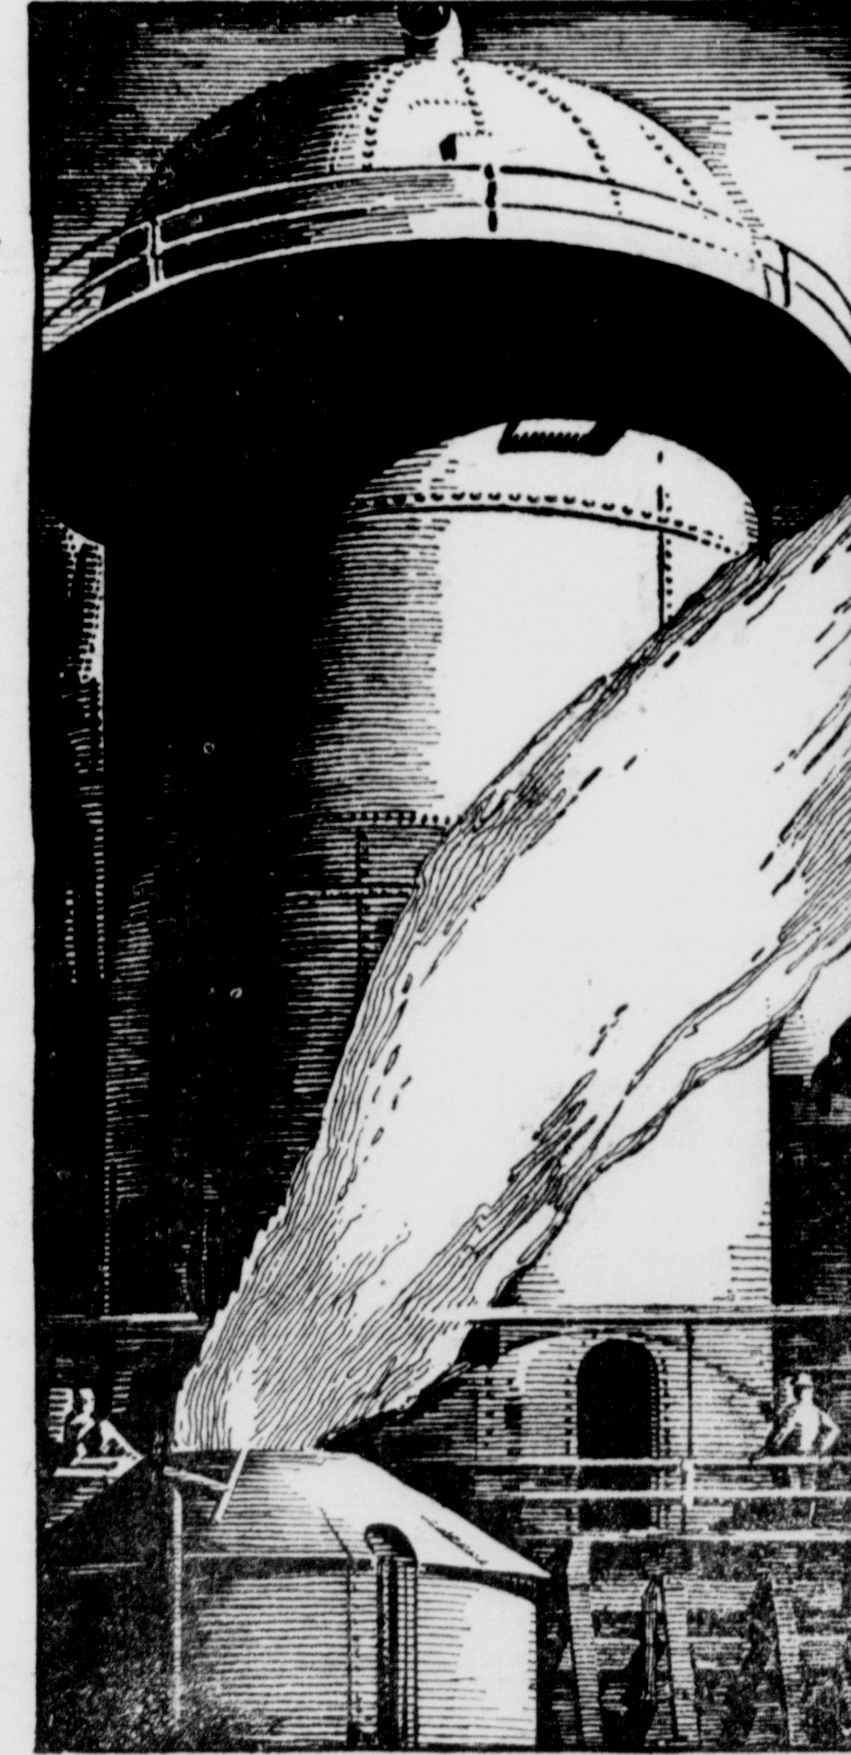

TOUGH BODY—stands up under the strain and heat of modern high-speed motor operation.

FLEXIBLE BODY—positive lubrication in summer heat or winter cold.

SMOOTH BODY—an oilier oil, free from non-lubricating wax . . . provides perfect piston seal and prevents loss of power.

PURE BODY—contains the very minimum of carbon-forming elements.

Make a real test of this modern oil in your motor. You'll be delighted with the results after you've drained out the old and put in a fresh crankcase-full of New Sohio Motor Oil . . . wherever you see the Red-White-and-Blue Sohio signs, and you see them everywhere in Ohio.

100 AT MEETING

Outstanding Citizen in District Asked to File.

WELLSVILLE—More than 100 persons attended the meeting of the Wellsville Men's Non-Partisan Political club last night in the city hall and heard the report of the executive committee on political sentiment.

Martin J. Abbott, speaking for the committee, announced that an effort would be made to enlist an outstanding man of the county to become a candidate for the office of county commissioner at the August primaries. The prospective candidate is not a resident of Wellsville.

Dr. J. S. McCulloch, president of the organization, said that the time had not arrived for endorsing any candidate and that no meetings had been held by the executive committee with any of aspirants for the respective offices. He said that this action probably would be taken at the July session.

Grattan V. Dugan sponsored a motion that a special meeting of the club be held next Monday night at which time the executive committee should make a report on the conference with the man sought by the club as a candidate for the commissionership. The motion was adopted.

Adam Frischkorn of Yellow Creek township reported that 80 voters had signed membership cards in that district.

Action on Detour Urged

Robert Paisley of Irondale urged the club to take some action relative to a suitable detour from Wellsville to Irondale. He named several possible routes. A motion was adopted that the question be referred to the executive committee composed of Dr. J. S. McCulloch, C. D. Platt, M. T. Abbott and George Davis.

During the discussion, it was declared that business was lost to the community by the closing of the road and use of the long detour now in effect.

Accord numbers by Andrew Slipchak of Port Homer and vocal selections by the quartet from the First Baptist church of Wellsville were features of the program.

"A GIRL'S MOST ALLURING CHARM?"

Famous Screen Stars
say: "Lovely Skin"

Nothing attracts people as irresistibly as skin that is utterly soft and smooth. This is a secret every screen star knows. For without it... say 45 Hollywood directors... no girl ever reaches stardom.

The close-up demands skin that is breath-taking in its loveliness. Like 9 out of 10 charming screen stars, vivacious Maria Alba, of Fox Films, guards her skin with Lux Toilet Soap. "Its lather is so soothing, it leaves my skin like velvet," she says. Delightful Virginia Cherrill, of United Artists, also uses this white, delicately fragrant soap. "The close-ups magnify everything so that we must have skin that is flawless. Lux Toilet Soap keeps mine perfectly smooth."

Armda, piquant Warner Brothers' player, says: "I always use it."

This is the official soap in all the studio dressing rooms. Have you discovered Lux Toilet Soap? Luxury such as you have found only in fine French soaps at 50¢ and $1.00 the cake... now 10¢.

NAVAL TREATY WINS BRITISH HOUSE VOTE

Liberals Stand With

Test.

BALDWIN MOTION

Rigid Inquiry Plan
Is Blocked by Premier.

By The Associated Press.
LONDON, June 3.—The London naval treaty today seemed well on its way toward final British approval. A conservative motion which, if passed, at least would have delayed approval, was beaten last night in the house of commons by a vote of 282 to 201.

The liberals voted with the government. The motion was presented by Stanley Baldwin, former conservative prime minister, who asked that the treaty be subjected to rigid inquiry by an especially appointed board of 11 house members.

In presenting his motion Mr. Baldwin disclaimed any anti-American feeling, but declared that he had been made nervous as to Britain's safety by certain provisions of the treaty, and felt that it should be subjected to the same kind of inquiry as it was receiving in the United States.

In answering him Ramsay MacDonald, prime minister, pointed out such an inquiry was taking place in the United States senate was customary in the treatment of treaties by that body, whereas British procedure was different.

Winston Churchill, who has repeatedly attacked the instrument, took the brunt of the attack in last night's debate. "It is not a treaty of party," he declared, "it is a treaty of inferiority."

WRITER GIVES HISTORY OF LUTHERANISM

First Treatise of Kind Produced in Wooster.

JUST OFF PRESS

Prof. Virgilus Fenn, Of College, is Author.

By The Associated Press. WOOSTER, O., June 3.—This little college city has produced what is believed to be the first history of the Lutheran church in America.

More than four centuries after the advent of Martin Luther, in whose faith Wooster college has been founded, a member of the faculty of this institution has written a complete treatise on the background, the purposes, the orthodoxy and the creed of the Lutheran religion. The title of the book, which is just off the MacMillan press, is "What is Lutheranism?"

The writer is a quiet and studious man, who conducted a deep research into his subject before attempting to interpret it. He is Professor Virgilus Fenn, of the Department of Philosophy. The volume is a study in the interpretation of the character of Lutheranism as one of the greater movements of Christianity. Its appearance is most timely on the campus here, and elsewhere—for this is the 400th anniversary of the Augsburg confession.

Professor Fenn requested representatives of high standing of all phases of Lutheranism to give their various views on matters important to the interpretation of the faith. Their replies have been edited into this volume.

Some of the questions Professor Fenn put to the men whose opinions he sought follow:

"What is Lutheranism? What is its essential character? In the light of its unique character, what is its contribution to modern Christianity or to Protestantism?"

"What is the relation of Lutheranism to the historic confessions, especially to its own confessions and symbols?"

"Are the declarations set down in the post-Luther period an essential part of Lutheranism and is the theology fixed? What is the attitude essential to Lutheranism on such problems as: Modern Biblical scholarship with implications involved in textual criticism and historical method?"

Some of the contributors to the book are Luther A. Weigle, dean of the divinity school and professor of Religious Education at Yale university.

John C. Evjen, professor of Church History, Hanna Divinity School, Springfield, Ohio. Henry F. Offeman, professor of the New Testament, Lutheran Theological Seminary, Philadelphia.

Abdel Rose Wentz, Professor of Church History, Lutheran Theological Seminary, Gettysburg, Pa. J. N. Ren, Professor of Theology, Wartburg Seminary, Dubuque, Ia. Samuel G. Hefelover, professor of Philosophy, Carthage College, Carthage, Ill.

There are many others, whose names have been conferred with in denominational circles of the Lutheran Church for many years.

Professor Fenn himself is a native Iowan, having been born in Sioux City. He was the son of a prominent clergyman. His A. B. degree was obtained from Augustana College, Rock Island, Ill. In 1916 He did special work at the Iowa State University, Northwestern University and Yale.

He was ordained for the Lutheran ministry in 1919, and has held pastorates in Iowa, Connecticut Ohio and Pennsylvania.

The writing of religious books is not a new thing for this Ohio educator and clergyman. He also is the author of "The Crisis in American Lutheran Theology" and a contributor to "The International Journal of Ethics," "The Christian Century," Lutheran Church quarterly, and numerous other magazines.

He has been connected with the faculty of Wooster College since 1923—and almost from the beginning has been busy in collecting data for and writing his book.

He is a member of the American Philosophical association, The American Association of University Professors and the Ministerium of the Lutheran Synod.

EAST REPORTS BUSINESS GAIN

BOSTON.—Results of a recent survey by the Industrial Committee of the New England Council among New England advertising agencies showed that advertising of New England business as a whole had increased considerably. Estimated reports by the advertising agencies ranged from "big" increases to "no change" and, in some cases, to definite decreases. The reports indicated that recognized leaders were concentrating on the most profitable lines and territories as a stabilization measure for 1930.

WAGES DEPEND ON LAWMAKERS

CHICAGO.—City employees are today looking forward eagerly to the passing of the revenue reform laws by the State Legislature before June 30.

BLOWN THROUGH GETS BIG SUM BED OF RIVER FOR PAINTING

PITTSBURGH.—"Bubbles" why bubbles are great things. It's Dick Greeden, "sand hog," aiking. Dick is sand hogging for building under construction here and he reminded for the reporters while on the job. Back in 1905 it was. Dick was working beneath the river bed of the East river during the construction of a tunnel for subway trains connecting Brooklyn and Manhattan.

Suddenly an infinitesimal leak appeared in the roof of the workings. It widened rapidly and the air, under pressure, rushed for the leak. The air tore a hole through the top and carried Dick with it. Once through the river bed, the air formed a giant bubble in which Greeden rose to the surface. He is one of the few men who ever were blown through the bed of a river and lived to tell of it.

ing for the annual Flag day automobile classic on the Altoona Speedway. The races are less than a month away and drivers who have entered the events are working on their new two-man cars to get them into shape for the 200 miles dash. Officials of the Altoona Speedway corporation said the advance ticket sales indicate the "dual control" gas buggies will be welcomed on the Altoona boards by a record representation of fandom. The mile and a quarter bowl has been the scene of activity for the last few weeks. Ground improvements have been rushed for the time trials scheduled to get under way Monday, June 9.

POTTERS' SUPPLY UPSETS LEAGUE LEADERS

Captures Slugging Contest

Bubin and Thorne Smack Four Base Wallops.

THEY slugged it out in vicious style at Newell park last night and the Potters' Supply nine, after three straight reverses, broke loose with a bevy of bingles that produced an 11 to 9 conquest over the Homer Laughlin league leaders.

The Potters chased two runs across in the seventh and last frame to break a 99 deadlock and cap the laurels.

It was a rough night on pitchers. "Hap" Jackson started for Laughlin but was relieved in the sixth with one gone. "Lefty" Baker got the assignment for the Potters but he, too, felt the effects of a bat bombardment and left the hilltop in the fifth with two gone, to be replaced by Eddie Rose. Ashe finished for Laughlin.

Two circuit clouts were registered in the melee, Lou Bubin, the big right fielder of the Laughlin, crashing one over the street car tracks in the second inning and catcher Thorne of the same outfit hitting one in to right center in the fifth which rolled almost to Congo before the outlanders caught up with it.

G. Wagner, Bayley Hit Hard.

George Wagner, middle fielder for the Potters, and Alf Bayley, playing the same spot for Laughlin, and each the respective cleanup swatter for his team, had perfect days at bat.

"Wag" smacked out four hits, including three doubles and a single, and got a walk in five times up. Bayley socked out a triple in his first trip to the plate and collected three singles thereafter.

The Potters got away to a commanding lead in the second frame when the side batted around.

Finley juggled one at short and Chamberlain got on to lead off. Morris beat out an infield bingle. G. Wagner then came through with a double, followed by Flint's triple and successive singles by G. Wagner and Hancock.

Laughlin got two of them back in the same frame.

A. Bayley tripled and finished on Merchant's sacrifice fly to right. Bubin hit one for four bases. Laughlin went into the lead in the third with a four-run attack that looked good enough, at that time, to cop.

Christy stopped one with his fists, Finley and Alf Bayley singled. Merchant was retired at first but Bubin was hit with a pitched ball. V. Bailey's sacrifice and a miscue at second contributed to the four-run rally.

The Potters scored one in the fourth on Flint's single and G. Wagner's double.

Three in Fifth.

Three more Newell runs in the fifth made things look almost hopeless for the Potters. Thorne drove Merchant and Bubin ahead of him on his homer and scored himself on Jackson's single.

But the Potters came to life again in the sixth with four runs that tied the score and hammered in two more in the seventh to sew up the game.

Rose singled, but was forced at second. C. Wagner got on on an infield miscue, Flint by virtue of the forecourt and then G. Wagner and Hancock doubled consecutively and Martin, taking Roberts' place at second, kicked in with a single.

Singles put Mautz and C. Wagner on in the seventh, a base on balls to G. Wagner advanced them both and Hancock's single drove them home.

Diolite Is Derby Favorite

Nineteen Horses Entered in British Classic.

By The Associated Press.

ESOM DOWNS, England, June 3—England's greatest sporting event, the derby, will be run here tomorrow before more than a half a million spectators.

The nineteen probable starters in the great turf classic, run annually since 1780, include two American entries, William Woodward's Scout Second and A. K. Macomber's Parthenon.

Parthenon is a decided outsider at odds of 100 to 1 against, but Scout Second, winner of the recent Newmarket stakes, is considered one of the best of the "dark horses," despite the fact that the betting odds on him are 25 to 1 against. A victory for Scout Second would give Mr. Woodward the distinction of owning the winners of both the derby and its Kentucky namesake Gallant Fox which galloped to victory at Churchill Downs, is owned by Mr. Woodward.

Tradition has placed Sir Hugo Hirst's Diolite in the favorite's role at 5 to 2 against. Diolite won the two thousands guineas and immediately became the choice for the derby, the ancient belief being that the winner of the two thousands guineas will win the derby.

Other favorites include the Aga Khan's Ruston Pasha, Lord Astor's Trevis and Major J. S. Court's Silver Flare.

JUNIORS PLAY KOPPEL SQUAD

MIDLAND — The Midland Junior American Legion baseball nine which staged a comeback Saturday on the local diamond by defeating Monaca 6 to 5 following a loss of 9 to 6 at Beaver three days before, will play the Koppel Junior Legion team tonight at Koppel's field.

Charles Spisak, who struck out 12 batters in Saturday's match, and Faresco, catcher, will comprise Midland's battery.

The uniforms for the Midland boys are expected Wednesday and will be worn for the first time in Saturday's game. The boys have been coming their Boy Scout suits for the games.

James Green, Midland avenue, is the team coach and manager.

Willie Davies Wins Hot Tilt With Bill

Charleroi Flyweight, Who Fights Here Next Tuesday, is Given Decision.

WILLIE DAVIES, Charleroi flyweight, one of the greatest glove wielders of his division, last night earned the decision over Black Bill, Cuba, in the 10-round main bout at Meyer bowl, North Braddock.

Davies will come to East Liverpool to open the new Foutts bowl in a 10-round battle with Jackie Coogan of Indianapolis next Tuesday.

The Davies-Bill bout drew one of the largest crowds of the present campaign into the Pennsylvania arena.

The scrap took on somewhat the form of a "revenge" session for Davies, who lost to his darkskinned rival in the flyweight eliminations in New York a year ago.

Davies was slow in starting and Bill appeared at his best in the first several rounds. The Cuban showed plenty of aggressiveness, cuffing Davies effectively on the inside.

The Charleroi boxer brought a left into play in the fourth round however, and immediately began to take the lead away from his opponent. Davies' left from then on kept Bill pretty well off balance and the hard right with which Bill was pasting Davies, lost its effectiveness.

A number of East Liverpool mitt followers saw the battle.

Davies will probably return to his mountain camp for a few days, after a brief rest, and, if possible, will come to East Liverpool Monday, the day preceding his fight with Coogan here.

ADVANTAGES of NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

Number 2

Action . . . Now

Speed and action mark a newspaper's birth, life and functions.

The news deals with instant matters—things that are happening today—things that are forecast for tomorrow.

In every corner of the world, reporters are hot on the heels of events—typewriters whirl—wires sing with the news. Airplanes, trains, motor cars, ships, all forces of travel and communication bear the news to the great distribution points which are the newspaper offices.

It's no wonder newspaper advertising produces quick results.

Newspaper advertising speaks in an atmosphere of action. As the public gets the news of the minute from the news columns, so it gathers the news of merchandise from the advertising columns with their constant invitations and impulses . . . Do it now . . . see it now . . . buy it now.

And the cumulative effect of persistent advertising, delivered in the midst of the other news of the day, is lasting public good-will and understanding.

GANGS NOTCH VICTIM

Possible Tenth Slaying Reported in Chicago.

By The Associated Press. CHICAGO, June 3.—Gang furies notched a ninth victim of week-end sniping on their must today with the death of Joseph Ferrar, 26-year-old Sicilian, who was one of three men shot down in a fusillade at North Clark and Locust streets in the renewed outbreak of hostilities.

Glimpses of a possible tenth slaying were also reported but no information was available hours after a policeman reported seeing a slumped body in an automobile as it drove away from a hotel where shots had been heard.

Ferrar's death from bullet wounds followed by several hours the death of his companion, Sam Moistero, but their pal, Tony Tornatore, was only slightly wounded.

Four others wounded during the week-end which has cost nine lives in the Chicago area were still dwelling with death today as police continued a roundup of bad men to forestall further violence.

The report said present activity is particularly favorable when compared with 1928, which next to 1929 was the country's biggest business year. The survey covers Ohio, western Pennsylvania, Kentucky and West Virginia.

In the steel industry, the larger companies enjoyed first quarter earnings of only 15 per cent less than in 1929 and 70 per cent more than in 1928 despite unfavorable factors, the review said.

Automobile production and new passenger car registrations showed an advance over the same period two years ago and the improvement was reflected in the sale of auto accessories.

Steel ingot production dropped three per cent below 1928, but iron showed a slight gain. The coal output also was greater than two years ago. In adverse conditions in the rubber and tire industries was noted, reduced stocks of manufacturers and dealers pointing to new orders. Electrical supplies business gained.

The Ohio river remained stationary today with stages at 15.5 feet in the upper pool and 9 feet in the lower pool at lock No. 8.

No. 8 today were the La Belle, Pittsburgh to Steubenville, with nine barges of coal and back, with 12 empty barges; the J. A. Cresat, Parkersburg to Pittsburgh, with two barges of timbers; the Cruiser, Pittsburgh to Weirton, with six barges of coal; the Maggie Mae, Pittsburgh to Fallsburg, with one barge of tar; the Bellefonte, Weirton to Pittsburgh, with four empty barges.

THE THEATER

THRILLS. ROMANCE
IN "THE TEXAN" AT CERAMIC THEATER

Gary Cooper, Fay Wray
Are Co-starred in Melodrama.

Thrills, action, romance and pathos are combined in the Paramount all-talking production, "The Texan," featuring Gary Cooper and Fay Wray, which opened a four-day engagement at the Ceramic theater yesterday.

"The Texan" is a fast-moving absorbing story, filled with brilliant melodramatic scenes and Spanish romance. While vistas of prairie, desert and a little South American spot, and picturesque scenes of a round up on the prairie are seen as the action turns and twists with startling rapidity.

Cooper, who was "The Virginian," is the "Texan" in this picture. As a star he has other big hits to his credit, including "Seven Days Leave," "Only the Brave" and others. Miss Wray, who plays opposite him, was the lovely heroine in "The Wedding March." She also played with Cooper in "The First Kiss" and "The Legion of the Condemned." Emma Dunn, Oscar Apfel, James Marcus, Donald Reed, Soledad Jimenez, Veda Buckland, Cesar Varni, Edwin Brady, Enrique Acosta and Romualdo Turiso are other members of the cast.

Cooper who plays the part of a western bad man, enters into a pact with Oscar Apfel to pose as the long lost son of a wealthy South American woman. At the auspicious fiesta he wins the heart of the woman's niece and is accepted as the son of the house. His new interests awaken his better instincts and he fights to escape his nefarious bargain.

The original story, "A Double-Dyed Deceiver," was written by O. Henry, the motion picture version being the work of Oliver H. P. Garrett. John Cromwell who made "The Street of Chance" was the director.

A comedy, "His Honor, The Mayor," Fox talking news pictures and vitaphone acts in technicolor are also included in the bill—H. J. K.

HOLLYWOOD HEADS WISHES OF PUBLIC IN FILM SCHEDULE

Movie Companies Will Stop Scramble to Imitate Successes.

By ROBBIN COONS.

HOLLYWOOD — The time may come, and soon, when movie companies will stop scrambling to imitate each other's successes.

In the hectic rush of the talkie revolution's earlier days, if one type of story scored, other producers, slenching of the box-office, would concentrate on the rapid production of similar pictures to share in the market.

This "Alibi" started a seeming endless epidemic of gangster talkies, which has not abated even now, while "The Broadway Melody" opened the flood-gates for the deluge of screen musicals, and "The Virginian" solidified if it did not inaugurate the trend toward westerns.

HALF-AND-HALF.

Now that the talkies are emerging from that early pandemonium of uncertainty and have settled down with a degree of assurance as to what the public wants, the various studios' production schedules indicate saner, more evenly balanced film ration being prepared.

Straight drama, outdoor pictures, musicals, melodrama, comedy—all are there, but the preponderance of any one type over the others is usually slight.

Many producers are realizing that what the public does not want is a repetition, in picture after picture, of a single basic plot enacted by different companies' actors.

SEEN AND HEARD.

Roaming the lots: A youthful trio, Anita Page, Sally Blane, and Doug Fairbanks, Jr., rehearsing a scene for "The Little Accident," hit stage comedy of two years ago. Many studios wanted it, but all except one shied at purchase because of the tenable situation. The company that bought it, however, has removed that element with a simple expedient, and filming goes merrily on.

Nell Hamilton, five years under contract, soon will free-lance. Marjorie Beebe, comedienne, tanned and excited after a Honolulu vacation, beginning work under a new contract.

You can capitalize almost anything, even a humiliating fist fight, in the movies.

Jim Tully and Jack Gilbert, who had it out without gloves in a Hollywood restaurant some weeks ago, are to renew hostilities, this time for the screen.

Tully signed for a role in the new Gilbert talkie, which he co-authored, and they will fight as movie-enemies.

RULES AGAINST TIME CHANGE

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—The Yale Athletic association has ruled against starting football games here at 1:30 instead of 2 p. m., in spite of a large graduate request for earlier games. So the Yale Alumni Weekly wants the athletic association to consult Harvard and Princeton on the subject, and arrange things to suit the graduates.

Yale holds classes on football Saturdays until 1 o'clock and the athletic association believes that 1:30 games would be too much of a burden on the student athlete.
